Index

American Journal of Speech-Language Pathology: A Journal of Clinical Practice Index to Volumes 1, 2, and 3, 1991–1994

| | |
|---|---|
| Author Index | 112 |
| Subject Index | 115 |
| Title Index | 120 |
| Department Index | 122 |

Author Index

Abraham, S. Differential treatment of phonological disability in children with impaired hearing who were trained orally. September 1993, 23–30.

Adamovich, B. L. B. Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? September 1994, 39–41.

Adams, J. B. See Dagenais et al., September 1994, 67–76.

Adams, M. R. Childhood stuttering under "positive" conditions. May 1992, 5–6.

Anderson, N. B. Understanding cultural diversity. January 1992, 11–12.

Anderson, N. B. Understanding cultural diversity. September 1991, 9–10.

Armson, J. See Kalinowski et al., May 1994, 61–66.

Aronson, A. E. See Square et al., May 1994, 67–80.

Bain, B. See Olswang & Bain, September 1994, 55–66.

Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. September 1993, 31–35.

Barnartt, E. Letter to the editor. May 1992, 64.

Beals, L. See Solberg et al., September 1994, 96–104.

Beukelman, D. R. See Morrow et al., May 1993, 19–30.

Biklen, D. Facilitated communication: Biklen responds. January 1992, 21–22.

Biklen, D. Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. January 1992, 15–17.

Blakeley, R. W. See Clark et al., January 1993, 84–92.

Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. January 1992, 54–62.

Bloedel, S. See Kent et al., May 1994, 81–95.

Blood, G. W. Development and assessment of a scale addressing communication needs of patients with laryngectomies. September 1993, 82–90.

Blood, G. W. Efficacy of a computer-assisted voice treatment protocol. January 1994, 57–66.

Blood, G. W., Luther, A. R., & Stemple, J. C. Coping and adjustment in alaryngeal speakers. January 1992, 63–69.

Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. January 1994, 37–44.

Bochner, J. H. See Barefoot et al., September 1993, 31–35.

Bonebrake, C. F. See Collins et al., September 1993, 52–55.

Breakey, L. K. Support personnel: Times change. May 1993, 13–16.

Bristow, D. C. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 11–18.

Bristow, D. C. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 19–24.

Calculator, S. N. Facilitated communication: Calculator responds. January 1992, 23–24.

Calculator, S. N. Perhaps the Emperor has clothes after all: A response to Biklen. January 1992, 18–20.

Campbell, L. R. Maintaining the integrity of home linguistic varieties: Black English vernacular. January 1993, 11–12.

Caplan, D. Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. January 1993, 59–83.

Carrico, D. M. See Yairi & Carrico, May 1992, 54–62.

Carroll, J. Y. See MacDonald & Carroll, September 1992, 39–48.

Casby, M. W. An intervention approach for naming problems in children. May 1992, 35–42.

Caswell, S. B. See Wilcox et al., September 1991, 49–62.

Clark, C. E., Schwarz, I. E., & Blakeley, R. W. The removable R-appliance as a practice device to facilitate correct production of /r/. January 1993, 84–92.

Coleman, P. P. See Koppenhaver et al., September 1991, 38–44.

Collins, M., McDonald, R., Stanley, R., Donovan, T., & Bonebrake, C. F. Severe paradoxical dysphonia in two young women. September 1993, 52–55.

Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. September 1993, 72–81.

Cooper, C. S. See Cooper & Cooper, September 1991, 28–31.

Cooper, E. B. Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: A harmful or helpful construct? September 1993, 11–15.

Cooper, E. B. Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Cooper responds to Ham. September 1993, 21–22.

Cooper, E. B., & Cooper, C. S. A fluency disorders prevention program for preschoolers and children in the primary grades. September 1991, 28–31.

Crais, E. R. Moving from "parent involvement" to family-centered services. September 1991, 5–8.

Critz-Crosby, P. See Dagenais et al., September 1994, 67–76.

Crossley, R. Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. May 1992, 15–18.

Crumley, R. L. Letter to the editor. May 1992, 65, 67.

Cuffs, M. S. See Venn et al., January 1993, 38–46.

Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. September 1994, 67–76.

Daly, D. A. Cluttering: The orphan of speech-language pathology. May

Index

American Journal of Speech-Language Pathology: A Journal of Clinical Practice Index to Volumes 1, 2, and 3, 1991–1994

| | |
|---|---|
| Author Index | 112 |
| Subject Index | 115 |
| Title Index | 120 |
| Department Index | 122 |

Author Index

Abraham, S. Differential treatment of phonological disability in children with impaired hearing who were trained orally. September 1993, 23–30.

Adamovich, B. L. B. Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? September 1994, 39–41.

Adams, J. B. See Dagenais et al., September 1994, 67–76.

Adams, M. R. Childhood stuttering under "positive" conditions. May 1992, 5–6.

Anderson, N. B. Understanding cultural diversity. January 1992, 11–12.

Anderson, N. B. Understanding cultural diversity. September 1991, 9–10.

Armson, J. See Kalinowski et al., May 1994, 61–66.

Aronson, A. E. See Square et al., May 1994, 67–80.

Bain, B. See Olswang & Bain, September 1994, 55–66.

Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. September 1993, 31–35.

Barnartt, E. Letter to the editor. May 1992, 64.

Beals, L. See Solberg et al., September 1994, 96–104.

Beukelman, D. R. See Morrow et al., May 1993, 19–30.

Biklen, D. Facilitated communication: Biklen responds. January 1992, 21–22.

Biklen, D. Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. January 1992, 15–17.

Blakeley, R. W. See Clark et al., January 1993, 84–92.

Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. January 1992, 54–62.

Bloedel, S. See Kent et al., May 1994, 81–95.

Blood, G. W. Development and assessment of a scale addressing communication needs of patients with laryngectomies. September 1993, 82–90.

Blood, G. W. Efficacy of a computer-assisted voice treatment protocol. January 1994, 57–66.

Blood, G. W., Luther, A. R., & Stemple, J. C. Coping and adjustment in alaryngeal speakers. January 1992, 63–69.

Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. January 1994, 37–44.

Bochner, J. H. See Barefoot et al., September 1993, 31–35.

Bonebrake, C. F. See Collins et al., September 1993, 52–55.

Breakey, L. K. Support personnel: Times change. May 1993, 13–16.

Bristow, D. C. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 11–18.

Bristow, D. C. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 19–24.

Calculator, S. N. Facilitated communication: Calculator responds. January 1992, 23–24.

Calculator, S. N. Perhaps the Emperor has clothes after all: A response to Biklen. January 1992, 18–20.

Campbell, L. R. Maintaining the integrity of home linguistic varieties: Black English vernacular. January 1993, 11–12.

Caplan, D. Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. January 1993, 59–83.

Carrico, D. M. See Yairi & Carrico, May 1992, 54–62.

Carroll, J. Y. See MacDonald & Carroll, September 1992, 39–48.

Casby, M. W. An intervention approach for naming problems in children. May 1992, 35–42.

Caswell, S. B. See Wilcox et al., September 1991, 49–62.

Clark, C. E., Schwarz, I. E., & Blakeley, R. W. The removable R-appliance as a practice device to facilitate correct production of /r/. January 1993, 84–92.

Coleman, P. P. See Koppenhaver et al., September 1991, 38–44.

Collins, M., McDonald, R., Stanley, R., Donovan, T., & Bonebrake, C. F. Severe paradoxical dysphonia in two young women. September 1993, 52–55.

Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. September 1993, 72–81.

Cooper, C. S. See Cooper & Cooper, September 1991, 28–31.

Cooper, E. B. Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: A harmful or helpful construct? September 1993, 11–15.

Cooper, E. B. Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Cooper responds to Ham. September 1993, 21–22.

Cooper, E. B., & Cooper, C. S. A fluency disorders prevention program for preschoolers and children in the primary grades. September 1991, 28–31.

Crais, E. R. Moving from "parent involvement" to family-centered services. September 1991, 5–8.

Critz-Crosby, P. See Dagenais et al., September 1994, 67–76.

Crossley, R. Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. May 1992, 15–18.

Crumley, R. L. Letter to the editor. May 1992, 65, 67.

Cuffs, M. S. See Venn et al., January 1993, 38–46.

Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. September 1994, 67–76.

Daly, D. A. Cluttering: The orphan of speech-language pathology. May 1993, 6–8.

Darling, R. M. See Haak & Darling, January 1993, 47–50.
Davis, G. A. Theory as the base on which to build treatment of aphasia. January 1994, 8–10.
DeCesare, L. D. See Venn et al., January 1993, 38–46.
Diamond, K. L. See Watterson et al., May 1993, 74–78.
Dineen, M. See Blood et al., January 1994, 37–44.
Donald, P. See Leonard et al., September 1992, 56–63.
Donovan, T. See Collins et al., September 1993, 52–55.
Doyle, P. C., & Fraser, S. C. A simplified clinical procedure for the acquisition of photoglottographic waveforms from children and adults. September 1993, 36–40.
Duffy, J. R. Emerging and future issues in motor speech disorders. September 1994, 36–39.
Dunn, S. L., van Kleeck, A., & Rossetti, L. M. Current roles and continuing needs of speech-language pathologists working in neonatal intensive care units. May 1993, 52–64.
Edelson, S. M. See Rimland & Edelson, May 1994, 16–24.
Edelson, S. M. See Rimland & Edelson, May 1994, 38–40.
Edmonston, N. K., & Thane, N. L. Children's use of comprehension strategies in response to relational words: Implications for assessment. January 1992, 30–35.
Edwards, M. L. See Conture et al., September 1993, 72–81.
Ehren, B. J. Eligibility, evaluation, and the realities of role definition in the schools. January 1993, 20–23.
Ehren, T. C. Tests: A significant difference? January 1993, 17–19.
Erickson, J. G. See Maestas & Erickson, September 1992, 5–10.
Evans, A. W. See Sturner et al., January 1994, 25–36.
Fang, X., & Ping-an, H. Articulation disorders among speakers of Mandarin Chinese. September 1992, 15–16.
Fey, M. E. See Hughes et al., September 1994, 89–95.
Fleming, L. A. See Venn et al., January 1993, 38–46.
Fraser, S. C. See Doyle & Fraser, September 1993, 36–40.
Freebairn, L. See Lewis & Freebairn, May 1993, 38–43.
Freese, P. R. See Records et al., January 1992, 44–53.
Friel-Patti, S. Commitment to theory. May 1994, 30–34.
Frumkin, J. R. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 11–18.
Frumkin, J. R. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 19–24.
Funk, S. G. See Sturner et al., January 1994, 25–36.
Girolametto, L., Tannock, R., & Siegel, L. Consumer-oriented evaluation of interactive language intervention. September 1993, 41–51.
Goodrich, S. See Leonard et al., September 1992, 56–63.
Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. The early identification of beginning stuttering I: Protocols. May 1992, 43–53.
Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. The early identification of beginning stuttering II: Problems. September 1992, 49–55.
Gordon-Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. September 1992, 28–38.
Gottwald, S. R. See Starkweather & Gottwald, January 1993, 51–58.
Gravel, J. S. Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. May 1994, 25–29.
Haak, N. J., & Darling, R. M. Imitation of suprasegmental patterns by non-native speakers of English. January 1993, 47–50.
Hale, J. E. See Terrell & Hale, January 1992, 5–8.
Hall, P. K. At the center of controversy: Developmental apraxia. May 1992, 23–25.
Ham, R. E. Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Constructive or casuistic? September 1993, 16–20.
Hammer, C. S. Working with families of Chamorro and Carolinian cultures. September 1994, 5–12.
Harris, K. S. See Schwartz, September 1993, 5–7.
Hegde, M. N. A personal journey to a different kind of convention: Speech and hearing in India. January 1992, 13–14.
Heller, J. H. See Sturner et al., January 1994, 25–36.
Helm-Estabrooks, N. An introduction. September 1994, 23–24.
Hershberger, D. Letter to the editor. January 1994, 89–90.
Hillis, J. W. Ongoing assessment in the management of stuttering: A clinical perspective. January 1993, 24–37.
Hoag, L. A. See Solberg et al., September 1994, 96–104.
Hodson, B. W. See Gordon-Brannan et al., September 1992, 28–38.
Holland, A. A look into a cloudy crystal ball for specialists in neurogenic language disorders. September 1994, 34–36.
Holt-Romeo, T. L. See McFarlane et al., September 1991, 45–48.
Hughes, D. L., Fey, M. E., Kertoy, M. K., & Nelson, N. W. Computer-assisted instruction for learning developmental sentence scoring: An experimental comparison. September 1994, 89–95.
Hyman, E. See Square et al., May 1994, 67–80.
Johnson, B. A. See Barefoot et al., September 1993, 31–35.
Kalinowski, J., Noble, S., Armson, J., & Stuart, A. Pretreatment and posttreatment speech naturalness ratings of adults with mild and severe stuttering. May 1994, 61–66.
Kalman, S. L. See Koppenhaver et al., September 1991, 38–44.
Karnell, M. P. Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Related until proven otherwise. September 1992, 17–18.
Karnell, M. P., & MacCracken, E. A database information storage and reporting system for videofluorographic oropharyngeal motility (OPM) swallowing evaluations. May 1994, 54–60.
Kauffman, S. M. See Blood et al., January 1994, 37–44.
Kearns, K. See Shane & Kearns, September 1994, 48–54.
Kent, R. D. Implications of socioeconomic trends for speech-language pathology. September 1994, 45–47.
Kent, R. D., Miolo, G., & Bloedel, S. The intelligibility of children's speech: A review of evaluation procedures. May 1994, 81–95.
Kertoy, M. K. See Hughes et al., September 1994, 89–95.
Koppenhaver, D. A., Coleman, P. P., Kalman, S. L., & Yoder, D. E. The implications of emergent literacy research for children with developmental disabilities. September 1991, 38–44.
Koul, R. K., & Lloyd, L. L. Survey of professional preparation in augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) in speech-language pathology and special education programs. September 1994, 13–22.
Kouri, T. A. Lexical comprehension in young children with developmental delays. January 1994, 79–88.
Kouri, T. A. See Wilcox et al., September 1991, 49–62.
Langmore, S. E., & Logemann, J. E. After the clinical bedside swallowing examination: What next? September 1991, 13–20.
Lavorato, A. S. See McFarlane et al., September 1991, 45–48.
Layton, T. L. See Sturner et al., January 1994, 25–36.
Leonard, L. B. Language disorders in the preschool years. September 1994, 24–26.
Leonard, R., Goodrich, S., McMenamin, P., & Donald, P. Differentiation of speakers with glossectomies by acoustic and perceptual measures. September 1992, 56–63.

Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. May 1993, 38–43.
Lewis, M. See Nippold et al., January 1992, 36–43.
Lloyd, L. L. See Koul & Lloyd, September 1994, 13–22.
Logemann, J. A. Evaluation and treatment of swallowing disorders. September 1994, 41–44.
Logemann, J. E. See Langmore & Logemann, September 1991, 13–20.
Louko, L. J. See Conture et al., September 1993, 72–81.
Luper, H. L. See Gordon & Luper, May 1992, 43–53.
Luper, H. L. See Gordon & Luper, September 1992, 49–55.
Luther, A. R. See Blood et al., January 1992, 63–69.
Lyon, J. G. Communication use and participation in life for adults with aphasia in natural settings: The scope of the problem. May 1992, 7–14.
MacCracken, E. See Karnell & MacCracken, May 1994, 54–60.
MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. September 1992, 39–48.
Machon, M. W. See Sturner et al., January 1994, 25–36.
Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. September 1992, 5–10.
Marshall, R. C. Problem-focused group treatment for clients with mild aphasia. May 1993, 31–37.
Masterson, J. J. Classroom-based phonological intervention. January 1993, 5–9.
McCabe, A., & Rollins, P. R. Assessment of preschool narrative skills. January 1994, 45–56.
McDonald, R. See Collins et al., September 1993, 52–55.
McFarlane, S. C. Letter to the editor. May 1992, 66–67.
McFarlane, S. C. See Watterson et al., Phoneme effects on vocal effort and vocal quality. May 1993, 74–78.
McFarlane, S. C., Holt-Romeo, T. L., Lavorato, A. S., & Warner, L. Unilateral vocal fold paralysis: Perceived vocal quality following three methods of treatment. September 1991, 45–48.
McFarlanek, S. C. See Watterson & McFarlanek, September 1992, 19–20.
McGann, W. M., & Paslawski, T. M. Incomplete locked-in syndrome: Two case studies with successful communication outcomes. September 1991, 32–37.
McLean, J. Facilitated communication: Some thoughts on Biklen's and Calculator's interaction. January 1992, 25–27.
McMenamin, P. See Leonard et al., September 1992, 56–63.
Meyer, E. C. See Prizant & Meyer, September 1993, 56–71.
Miller, L. Testing and the creation of disorder. January 1993, 13–16.
Miller, M. H. Letter to the editor. September 1994, 105–106.
Miolo, G. See Kent et al., May 1994, 81–95.
Mirenda, P. See Morrow et al., May 1993, 19–30.
Mizuko, M. Personal computers as augmentative and alternative communication aids. September 1993, 8–9.
Monville, D. K., & Nelson, N. W. Parental viewpoints on change following auditory integration training for autism. May 1994, 41–53.
Morris, A. See Venn et al., January 1993, 38–46.
Morris, H. L. Some questions and answers about velopharyngeal dysfunction during speech. May 1992, 26–28.
Morrow, D. R., Mirenda, P., Beukelman, D. R., & Yorkston, K. M. Vocabulary selection for augmentative communication systems: A comparison of three techniques. May 1993, 19–30.
Most, T. M. See Schwartz, September 1993, 5–7.
Navas, D. M., & Pinho, S. R. Speech-language pathology and audiology practice in Brazil. May 1993, 5.
Nelson, N. W. Letter to the editor. September 1994, 106–111.
Nelson, N. W. School-age language: Bumpy road or super-expressway to the next millenium? September 1994, 29–31.
Nelson, N. W. See Hughes et al., September 1994, 89–95.
Nelson, N. W. See Monville & Nelson, May 1994, 41–53.
Netsell, R. W. Instrumentation and special procedures for individuals with dysarthria. May 1994, 9–11.
Nippold, M. A., Schwarz, I. E., & Lewis, M. Analyzing the potential benefit of microcomputer use for teaching figurative language. January 1992, 36–43.
Noble, S. See Kalinowski et al., May 1994, 61–66.
Norris, J. A. Some questions and answers about whole language. September 1992, 11–14.
Olswang, L. B., & Bain, B. Data collection: Monitoring children's treatment progress. September 1994, 55–66.
Onslow, M. Identification of early stuttering: Issues and suggested strategies. September 1992, 21–27.
Paslawski, T. M. See McGann & Paslawski,, September 1991, 32–37.
Perkins, W. H. Fluency controls and automatic fluency. January 1992, 9–10.
Perkins, W. H. Solving unsolvable stuttering. September 1994, 32–33.
Ping-an, H. See Fang & Ping-an, September 1992, 15–16.
Pinho, S. R. See Navas & Pinho, May 1993, 5.
Powell, T. W. Letter to the editor. May 1992, 64–65.
Powell, T. W. Planning for phonological generalization: An approach to treatment target selection. September 1991, 21–27.
Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. September 1993, 56–71.
Raimondi, S. C. See Blood et al., January 1994, 37–44.
Records, N. L., Tomblin, J. B., & Freese, P. R. The quality of life of young adults with histories of specific language impairment. January 1992, 44–53.
Reed, V. A. What Crocodile Dundee never told us: Speech-language pathology in Australia. September 1991, 11–12.
Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. Is theory better than chicken soup? May 1994, 38–40.
Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. The effects of auditory integration training on autism. May 1994, 16–24.
Ritter, E. G. The International Affairs Association. January 1993, 10.
Robin, D. A. Developmental apraxia of speech: Just another motor problem. May 1992, 19–22.
Rollins, P. R. See McCabe & Rollins, January 1994, 45–56.
Romich, B. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 11–18.
Romich, B. See Woltosz et al., January 1994, 19–24.
Roseberry-McKibbin, C. Assessment and intervention for children with limited English proficiency and language disorders. September 1994, 77–88.
Rossetti, L. M. See Dunn et al., May 1993, 52–64.
Ruscello, D. M. See Shuster et al., May 1992, 29–34.
Schum, R. L. See Zebrowski & Schum, May 1993, 65–73.
Schwartz, R. G., Harris, K. S., & Most, T. M. Speech, language, and hearing in Israel. September 1993, 5–7.
Schwarz, I. E. See Clark et al., January 1993, 84–92.
Schwarz, I. E. See Nippold et al., January 1992, 36–43.
Shane, H. C., & Kearns, K. An examination of the role of the facilitator in "facilitated communication." September 1994, 48–54.

Shriberg, L. D. Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. September 1994, 26–28.
Shuster, L. I., Ruscello, D. M., & Smith, K. D. Evoking [r] using visual feedback.May 1992, 29–34.
Siegel, L. See Girolametto et al., September 1993, 41–51.
Simpson, K. C. See Blood et al., January 1994, 37–44.
Smith, K. D. See Shuster et al., May 1992, 29–34.
Solberg, L. C., Hoag, L. A., & Beals, L. Clinical measurement of fundamental frequency in normal and dysphonic voices using electronic tuners. September 1994, 96–104.
Square, P. A., Aronson, A. E., & Hyman, E. Case study of the redevelopment of motor speech control following acquired brain damage in early childhood. May 1994, 67–80.
Stagaard, K. A. See Blood et al., January 1994, 37–44.
Stanley, R. See Collins et al., September 1993, 52–55.
Starkweather, C. W., & Gottwald, S. R. A pilot study of relations among specific measures obtained at intake and discharge in a program of prevention and early intervention for stuttering. January 1993, 51–58.
Stemple, J. C. See Blood et al., January 1992, 63–69.
Stewart, T., & Wright, L. An overview of services in Britain for people who stutter. January 1994, 5–7.
Stuart, A. See Kalinowski et al., May 1994, 61–66.
Sturner, R. A., Layton, T. L., Evans, A. W., Heller, J. H., Funk, S. G., & Machon, M. W. Preschool speech and language screening: A review of currently available tests. January 1994, 25–36.
Tannock, R. See Girolametto et al., September 1993, 41–51.
Terrell, B. Y., & Hale, J. E. Serving a multicultural population: Different learning styles. January 1992, 5–8.
Thane, N. L. See Edmonston & Thane, January 1992, 30–35.
Tomblin, J. B. See Records et al., January 1992, 44–53.
Tuomi, S. K. Speech-language pathology in South Africa: A profession in transition. May 1994, 5–8.
van Kleeck, A. Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. January 1994, 67–78.
van Kleeck, A. See Dunn et al., May 1993, 52–64.
Veale, T. K. Auditory integration training: The use of a new listening treatment within our profession. May 1994, 12–15.
Veale, T. K. Weighing the promises and the problems: AIT may be a risk worth taking. May 1994, 35–37.
Venn, M. L., Wolery, M., Fleming, L. A., DeCesare, L. D., Morris, A., & Cuffs, M. S. Effects of teaching preschool peers to use the Mand-model procedure during snack activities. January 1993, 38–46.
vom Eigen, B. A. See Barefoot et al., September 1993, 31–35.
Wallach, H. See Bleile & Wallach, January 1992, 54–62.
Warner, L. See McFarlane et al., September 1991, 45–48.
Watterson, T., & McFarlanek, S. C. Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Different disorders. September 1992, 19–20.
Watterson, T., McFarlane, S. C., & Diamond, K. L. Phoneme effects on vocal effort and vocal quality. May 1993, 74–78.
Weaver, C. Understanding and educating students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder: Toward a system theory and whole language perspective. May 1993, 79–89.
Werven, G. Support personnel: An issue for our times. May 1993, 9–12.
Werven, G. Support personnel: Werven responds to Breakey. May 1993, 17–18.
Wilcox, M. J., Kouri, T. A., & Caswell, S. B. Early language intervention: A comparison of classroom and individual treatment. September 1991, 49–62.
Williams, A. L. Phonological reorganization: A qualitative measure of phonological improvement. May 1993, 44–51.
Wolery, M. See Venn et al., January 1993, 38–46.
Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. January 1994, 11–18.
Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. January 1994, 19–24.
Wynne, M. K. See Gordon-Brannan et al., September 1992, 28–38.
Yairi, E., & Carrico, D. M. Early childhood stuttering: Pediatricians' attitudes and practices. May 1992, 54–62.
Yoder, D. E. See Koppenhaver et al., September 1991, 38–44.
Yorkston, K. M. See Morrow et al., May 1993, 19–30.
Zebrowski, P. M., & Schum, R. L. Counseling parents of children who stutter. May 1993, 65–73.

Subject Index

Hearing

Nature of Hearing and Its Disorders

Auditory and Other Otic Pathologies

Auditory integration training: The use of a new listening treatment within our profession. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 12–15.
The effects of auditory integration training on autism. Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 16–24.
Letter to the editor, Miller, M. H. September 1994, 105–106.
Weighing the promises and the problems: AIT may be a risk worth taking. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 35–37.

Hearing Loss and Deafness

Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. September 1993, 31–35.
Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. Gordon-Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. September 1992, 28–38.

Intervention

Habilitation, Rehabilitation, and Education

Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. Gravel, J. S. May 1994, 25–29.
Commitment to theory. Friel-Patti, S. May 1994, 30–34.
Differential treatment of phonological disability in children with impaired hearing who were trained orally. Abraham, S. September 1993, 23–30.
The effects of auditory integration training on autism. Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 16–24.
Letter to the editor, Miller, M. H. September 1994, 105–106.
Parental viewpoints on change following auditory integration training for autism. Monville, D. K., & Nelson, N. W. May 1994, 41–53.
Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. September 1993, 31–35.

Auditory Integration Training

Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. Gravel, J. S. May 1994, 25–29.
Auditory integration training: The use of a new listening treatment within our profession. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 12–15.

Is theory better than chicken soup? Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 38–40.
Letter to the editor, Miller, M. H. September 1994, 105–111.
Parental viewpoints on change following auditory integration training for autism. Monville, D. K., & Nelson, N. W. May 1994, 41–53.
Weighing the promises and the problems: AIT may be a risk worth taking. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 35–37.

Prevention
A pilot study of relations among specific measures obtained at intake and discharge in a program of prevention and early intervention for stuttering. Starkweather, C. W., & Gottwald, S. R. January 1993, 51–58.

Language

Nature of Normal Language

Language Development
Assessment of preschool narrative skills. McCabe, A., & Rollins, P. R. January 1994, 45–56.
Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. September 1992, 39–48.
The implications of emergent literacy research for children with developmental disabilities. Koppenhaver, D. A., Coleman, P. P., Kalman, S. L., & Yoder, D. E. September 1991, 38–44.
The intelligibility of children's speech: A review of evaluation procedures. Kent, R. D., Miolo, G., & Bloedel, S. May 1994, 81–95.
Lexical comprehension in young children with developmental delays. Kouri, T. A. January 1994, 79–88.
Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. van Kleeck, A. January 1994, 67–78.
Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. September 1993, 56–71.

Language Use in Adults
Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. September 1992, 39–48.
Letter to the editor, Hershberger, D. January 1994, 89–90.
Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. van Kleeck, A. January 1994, 67–78.
Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. Caplan, D. January 1993, 59–83.

Language Differences and Different Languages
Imitation of suprasegmental patterns by non-native speakers of English. Haak, N. J., & Darling, R. M. January 1993, 47–50.
Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. van Kleeck, A. January 1994, 67–78.
Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. September 1993, 31–35.
A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. January 1992, 54–62.

Verbal Learning and Memory
An intervention approach for naming problems in children. Casby, M. W. May 1992, 35–42.

Language Disorders

Aphasia and Other Adult Language Disorders
Communication use and participation in life for adults with aphasia in natural settings: The scope of the problem. Lyon, J. G. May 1992, 7–14.
Incomplete locked-in syndrome: Two case studies with successful communication outcomes. McGann, W. M., & Paslawski, T. M. September 1991, 32–37.
A look into a cloudy crystal ball for specialists in neurogenic language disorders. Holland, A. September 1994, 34–36.
Problem-focused group treatment for clients with mild aphasia. Marshall, R. C. May 1993, 31–37.
Theory as the base on which to build treatment of aphasia. Davis, G. A. January 1994, 8–10.
Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. Caplan, D. January 1993, 59–83.

Language Disorders in Children
Analyzing the potential benefit of microcomputer use for teaching figurative language. Nippold, M. A., Schwarz, I. E., & Lewis, M. January 1992, 36–43.
Assessment and intervention for children with limited English proficiency and language disorders. Roseberry-McKibbin, C. September 1994, 77–88.
Classroom-based phonological intervention. Masterson, J. J. January 1993, 5–9.
A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. May 1993, 38–43.
Commitment to theory. Friel-Patti, S. May 1994, 30–34.
Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. September 1992, 39–48.
An intervention approach for naming problems in children. Casby, M. W. May 1992, 35–42.
Language disorders in the preschool years. Leonard, L. B. September 1994, 24–26.
Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. van Kleeck, A. January 1994, 67–78.
The quality of life of young adults with histories of specific language impairment. Records, N. L., Tomblin, J. B., & Freese, P. R. January 1992, 44–53.
Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. September 1993, 56–71.
Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. Biklen, D. January 1992, 15–17.
Understanding and educating students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder: Toward a system theory and whole language perspective. Weaver, C. May 1993, 79–89.

Learning Disabilities
Analyzing the potential benefit of microcomputer use for teaching figurative language. Nippold, M. A., Schwarz, I. E., & Lewis, M. January 1992, 36–43.
Assessment of preschool narrative skills. McCabe, A., & Rollins, P. R. January 1994, 45–56.
Classroom-based phonological intervention. Masterson, J. J. January 1993, 5–9.
A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. May 1993, 38–43.
Cluttering: The orphan of speech-language pathology. Daly, D. A. May 1993, 6–8.
Understanding and educating students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder: Toward a system theory and whole language perspective. Weaver, C. May 1993, 79–89.

Language Disorders in Mental Retardation

An examination of the role of the facilitator in "facilitated communication." Shane, H. C., & Kearns, K. September 1994, 48–54.

Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. September 1992, 39–48.

Language Disorders in Autism

Parental viewpoints on change following auditory integration training for autism. Monville, D. K., & Nelson, N. W. May 1994, 41–53.

Language Disorders in Multicultural Children

Assessment and intervention for children with limited English proficiency and language disorders. Roseberry-McKibbin, C. September 1994, 77–88.

Language Disorders in Personality and Psychiatric Disturbances

Commitment to theory. Friel-Patti, S. May 1994, 30–34.

An examination of the role of the facilitator in "facilitated communication." Shane, H. C., & Kearns, K. September 1994, 48–54.

Specific Language Impairment in Adults

The quality of life of young adults with histories of specific language impairment. Records, N. L., Tomblin, J. B., & Freese, P. R. January 1992, 44–53.

Autism

Letter to the editor, Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 106–111.

Developmental Delay

Lexical comprehension in young children with developmental delays. Kouri, T. A. January 1994, 79–88.

Phonological Disorders

Phonological reorganization: A qualitative measure of phonological improvement. Williams, A. L. May 1993, 44–51.

Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. Gordon-Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. September 1992, 28–38.

Assessment and Intervention

Screening

Children's use of comprehension strategies in response to relational words: Implications for assessment. Edmonston, N. K., & Thane, N. L. January 1992, 30–35.

Preschool speech and language screening: A review of currently available tests. Sturner, R. A., Layton, T. L., Evans, A. W., Heller, J. H., Funk, S. G., & Machon, M. W. January 1994, 25–36.

Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. Caplan, D. January 1993, 59–83.

Assessment

Assessment of preschool narrative skills. McCabe, A., & Rollins, P. R. January 1994, 45–56.

Children's use of comprehension strategies in response to relational words: Implications for assessment. Edmonston, N. K., & Thane, N. L. January 1992, 30–35.

A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. May 1993, 38–43.

Computer-assisted instruction for learning developmental sentence scoring: An experimental comparison. Hughes, D. L., Fey, M. E., Kertoy, M. K., & Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 89–95.

Data collection: Monitoring children's treatment progress. Olswang, L. B., & Bain, B. September 1994, 55–66.

Eligibility, evaluation, and the realities of role definition in the schools. Ehren, B. J. January 1993, 20–23.

The intelligibility of children's speech: A review of evaluation procedures. Kent, R. D., Miolo, G., & Bloedel, S. May 1994, 81–95.

Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.

Phonological reorganization: A qualitative measure of phonological improvement. Williams, A. L. May 1993, 44–51.

Problem-focused group treatment for clients with mild aphasia. Marshall, R. C. May 1993, 31–37.

Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. September 1993, 31–35.

Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. September 1993, 56–71.

Testing and the creation of disorder. Miller, L. January 1993, 13–16.

Tests: A significant difference? Ehren, T. C. January 1993, 17–19.

Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. Caplan, D. January 1993, 59–83.

Intervention

Analyzing the potential benefit of micro-computer use for teaching figurative language. Nippold, M. A., Schwarz, I. E., & Lewis, M. January 1992, 36–43.

Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. Gravel, J. S. May 1994, 25–29.

Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. September 1992, 39–48.

Communication use and participation in life for adults with aphasia in natural settings: The scope of the problem. Lyon, J. G. May 1992, 7–14.

Consumer-oriented evaluation of interactive language intervention. Girolametto, L., Tannock, R., & Siegel, L. September 1993, 41–51.

Data collection: Monitoring children's treatment progress. Olswang, L. B., & Bain, B. September 1994, 55–66.

Early language intervention: A comparison of classroom and individual treatment. Wilcox, M. J., Kouri, T. A., & Caswell, S. B. September 1991, 49–62.

Effects of teaching preschool peers to use the Mand-model procedure during snack activities. Venn, M. L., Wolery, M., Fleming, L. A., DeCesare, L. D., Morris, A., & Cuffs, M. S. January 1993, 38–46.

Facilitated communication: Some thoughts on Biklen's and Calculator's interaction. McLean, J. January 1992, 25–27.

An intervention approach for naming problems in children. Casby, M. W. May 1992, 35–42.

Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.

Lexical comprehension in young children with developmental delays. Kouri, T. A. January 1994, 79–88.

Phonological reorganization: A qualitative measure of phonological improvement. Williams, A. L. May 1993, 44–51.

Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. van Kleeck, A. January 1994, 67–78.

Problem-focused group treatment for clients with mild aphasia. Marshall, R. C. May 1993, 31–37.

Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. Gordon-Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. September 1992, 28–38.

Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. September 1993, 56–71.

Some questions and answers about whole language. Norris, J. A. September 1992, 11–14.

Theory as the base on which to build treatment of aphasia. Davis, G. A. January 1994, 8–10.
Working with families of Chamorro and Carolinian cultures. Hammer, C. S. September 1994, 5–12.

Nonspeech Communication Systems

Facilitated communication: Some thoughts on Biklen's and Calculator's interaction. McLean, J. January 1992, 25–27.
Incomplete locked-in syndrome: Two case studies with successful communication outcomes. McGann, W. M., & Paslawski, T. M. September 1991, 32–37.
Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.
Personal computers as augmentative and alternative communication aids. Mizuko, M. September 1993, 8–9.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 11–18.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 19–24.
Survey of professional preparation in augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) in speech-language pathology and special education programs. Koul, R. K., & Lloyd, L. L. September 1994, 13–22.
Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. Biklen, D. January 1992, 15–17.
Vocabulary selection for augmentative communication systems: A comparison of three techniques. Morrow, D. R., Mirenda, P., Beukelman, D. R., & Yorkston, K. M. May 1993, 19–30.

Traumatic Brain Injury

Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? Adamovich, B. L. B. September 1994, 39–41.

Facilitated Communication

An examination of the role of the facilitator in "facilitated communication." Shane, H. C., & Kearns, K. September 1994, 48–54.
Facilitated communication: Biklen responds. Biklen, D. January 1992, 21–22.
Facilitated communication: Calculator responds. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 23–24.
Perhaps the Emperor has clothes after all: A response to Biklen. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 18–20.
Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. Biklen, D. January 1992, 15–17.

Families

Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. September 1993, 56–71.

Microcomputers

Analyzing the potential benefit of microcomputer use for teaching figurative language. Nippold, M. A., Schwarz, I. E., & Lewis, M. January 1992, 36–43.

Preverbal Communication Services

Current roles and continuing needs of speech-language pathologists working in neonatal intensive care units. Dunn, S. L., van Kleeck, A., & Rossetti, L. M. May 1993, 52–64.

Speech

Nature of Normal Speech

Development of Speech and Voice

The intelligibility of children's speech: A review of evaluation procedures. Kent, R. D., Miolo, G., & Bloedel, S. May 1994, 81–95.

Perception of Speech

Auditory integration training: The use of a new listening treatment within our profession. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 12–15.
Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. Gordon-Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. September 1992, 28–38.
Weighing the promises and the problems: AIT may be a risk worth taking. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 35–37.

Speech and Voice Disorders

Articulation and Resonance Disorders

Articulation disorders among speakers of Mandarin Chinese. Fang, X., & Ping-an, H. September 1992, 15–16.
At the center of controversy: Developmental apraxia. Hall, P. K. May 1992, 23–25.
Classroom-based phonological intervention. Masterson, J. J. January 1993, 5–9.
A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. May 1993, 38–43.
Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. September 1994, 67–76.
Developmental apraxia of speech: Just another motor problem. Robin, D. A. May 1992, 19–22.
Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. Shriberg, L. D. September 1994, 26–28.
Differentiation of speakers with glossectomies by acoustic and perceptual measures. Leonard, R., Goodrich, S., McMenamin, P., & Donald, P. September 1992, 56–63.
Evoking [r] using visual feedback. Shuster, L. I., Ruscello, D. M., & Smith, K. D. May 1992, 29–34.
Planning for phonological generalization: An approach to treatment target selection. Powell, T. W. September 1991, 21–27.
Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. Gordon-Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. September 1992, 28–38.
The removable R-appliance as a practice device to facilitate correct production of /r/. Clark, C. E., Schwarz, I. E., & Blakeley, R. W. January 1993, 84–92.
Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. September 1993, 72–81.
A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. January 1992, 54–62.

Craniofacial and Other Anomalies

Differentiation of speakers with glossectomies by acoustic and perceptual measures. Leonard, R., Goodrich, S., McMenamin, P., & Donald, P. September 1992, 56–63.
Some questions and answers about velopharyngeal dysfunction during speech. Morris, H. L. May 1992, 26–28.

Physiologically Based Speech Disorders

Emerging and future issues in motor speech disorders. Duffy, J. R. September 1994, 32–33.
Instrumentation and special procedures for individuals with dysarthria. Netsell, R. W. May 1994, 9–11.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 11–18.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., &

Romich, B. January 1994, 19–24.
A simplified clinical procedure for the acquisition of photoglottographic waveforms from children and adults. Doyle, P. C., & Fraser, S. C. September 1993, 36–40.

Speech and Voice Disorders in Personality and Psychiatric Disturbances

Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Related until proven otherwise. Karnell, M. P. September 1992, 17–18.

Stuttering and Other Fluency Disturbances

Childhood stuttering under "positive" conditions. Adams, M. R. May 1992, 5–6.
Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: A harmful or helpful construct? Cooper, E. B. September 1993, 11–15.
Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Constructive or casuistic? Ham, R. E. September 1993, 16–20.
Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Cooper responds to Ham. Cooper, E. B. September 1993, 21–22.
Cluttering: The orphan of speech-language pathology. Daly, D. A. May 1993, 6–8.
Counseling parents of children who stutter. Zebrowski, P. M., & Schum, R. L. May 1993, 65–73.
Early childhood stuttering: Pediatricians' attitudes and practices. Yairi, E., & Carrico, D. M. May 1992, 54–62.
The early identification of beginning stuttering I: Protocols. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. May 1992, 43–53.
The early identification of beginning stuttering II: Problems. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. September 1992, 49–55.
A fluency disorders prevention program for preschoolers and children in the primary grades. Cooper, E. B., & Cooper, C. S. September 1991, 28–31.
Fluency controls and automatic fluency. Perkins, W. H. January 1992, 9–10.
Identification of early stuttering: Issues and suggested strategies. Onslow, M. September 1992, 21–27.
Ongoing assessment in the management of stuttering: A clinical perspective. Hillis, J. W. January 1993, 24–37.
An overview of services in Britain for people who stutter. Stewart, T., & Wright, L. January 1994, 5–7.
A pilot study of relations among specific measures obtained at intake and discharge in a program of prevention and early intervention for stuttering. Starkweather, C. W., & Gottwald, S. R. January 1993, 51–58.
Pretreatment and posttreatment speech naturalness ratings of adults with mild and severe stuttering. Kalinowski, J., Noble, S., Armson, J., & Stuart, A. May 1994, 61–66.
Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. September 1993, 72–81.
Solving unsolvable stuttering. Perkins, W. H. September 1994, 32–33.

Voice and Other Laryngeal Disorders

Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Different disorders. Watterson, T., & McFarlanek, S. C. September 1992, 19–20.
Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Related until proven otherwise. Karnell, M. P. September 1992, 17–18.
After the clinical bedside swallowing examination: What next? Langmore, S. E., & Logemann, J. E. September 1991, 13–20.
Coping and adjustment in alaryngeal speakers. Blood, G. W., Luther, A. R., & Stemple, J. C. January 1992, 63–69.
Development and assessment of a scale addressing communication needs of patients with laryngectomies. Blood, G. W. September 1993, 82–90.
Efficacy of a computer-assisted voice treatment protocol. Blood, G. W. January 1994, 57–66.
Phoneme effects on vocal effort and vocal quality. Watterson, T., McFarlane, S. C., & Diamond, K. L. May 1993, 74–78.
Severe paradoxical dysphonia in two young women. Collins, M., McDonald, R., Stanley, R., Donovan, T., & Bonebrake, C. F. September 1993, 52–55.
A simplified clinical procedure for the acquisition of photoglottographic waveforms from children and adults. Doyle, P. C., & Fraser, S. C. September 1993, 36–40.
Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. January 1994, 37–44.
Unilateral vocal fold paralysis: Perceived vocal quality following three methods of treatment. McFarlane, S. C., Holt-Romeo, T. L., Lavorato, A. S., & Warner, L. September 1991, 45–48.

Phonological Disorders

Differential treatment of phonological disability in children with impaired hearing who were trained orally. Abraham, S. September 1993, 23–30.

Psychosocial Aspects

Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. January 1994, 37–44.

Spasmodic Dysphonia

Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Related until proven otherwise. Karnell, M. P. September 1992, 17–18.

Speech Redevelopment

Case study of the redevelopment of motor speech control following acquired brain damage in early childhood. Square, P. A., Aronson, A. E., & Hyman, E. May 1994, 67–80.

Swallowing Disorders

A database information storage and reporting system for videofluorographic oropharyngeal motility (OPM) swallowing evaluations. Karnell, M. P., & MacCracken, E. May 1994, 54–60.
After the clinical bedside swallowing examination: What next? Langmore, S. E., & Logemann, J. E. September 1991, 13–20.
Evaluation and treatment of swallowing disorders. Logemann, J. A. September 1994, 41–44.

Assessment and Intervention

Screening

Preschool speech and language screening: A review of currently available tests. Sturner, R. A., Layton, T. L., Evans, A. W., Heller, J. H., Funk, S. G., & Machon, M. W. January 1994, 25–36.

Assessment

After the clinical bedside swallowing examination: What next? Langmore, S. E., & Logemann, J. E. September 1991, 13–20.
Clinical measurement of fundamental frequency in normal and dysphonic voices using electronic tuners. Solberg, L. C., Hoag, L. A., & Beals, L. September 1994, 96–104.
A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. May 1993, 38–43.
Data collection: Monitoring children's treatment progress. Olswang, L. B., & Bain, B. September 1994, 55–66.
Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. September 1994, 67–76.
Development and assessment of a scale addressing communication needs of patients with laryngectomies. Blood, G.

W. September 1993, 82–90.
The early identification of beginning stuttering I: Protocols. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. May 1992, 43–53.
The early identification of beginning stuttering II: Problems. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. September 1992, 49–55.
Eligibility, evaluation, and the realities of role definition in the schools. Ehren, B. J. January 1993, 20–23.
Identification of early stuttering: Issues and suggested strategies. Onslow, M. September 1992, 21–27.
The intelligibility of children's speech: A review of evaluation procedures. Kent, R. D., Miolo, G., & Bloedel, S. May 1994, 81–95.
Ongoing assessment in the management of stuttering: A clinical perspective. Hillis, J. W. January 1993, 24–37.
A pilot study of relations among specific measures obtained at intake and discharge in a program of prevention and early intervention for stuttering. Starkweather, C. W., & Gottwald, S. R. January 1993, 51–58.
Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. September 1993, 31–35.
A simplified clinical procedure for the acquisition of photoglottographic waveforms from children and adults. Doyle, P. C., & Fraser, S. C. September 1993, 36–40.
Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. September 1993, 72–81.
Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. January 1994, 37–44.
A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. January 1992, 54–62.
Some questions and answers about velopharyngeal dysfunction during speech. Morris, H. L. May 1992, 26–28.
Tests: A significant difference? Ehren, T. C. January 1993, 17–19.

Acoustic Measures of Speech and Voice

Clinical measurement of fundamental frequency in normal and dysphonic voices using electronic tuners. Solberg, L. C., Hoag, L. A., & Beals, L. September 1994, 96–104.
Evoking [r] using visual feedback. Shuster, L. I., Ruscello, D. M., & Smith, K. D. May 1992, 29–34.
Ongoing assessment in the management of stuttering: A clinical perspective. Hillis, J. W. January 1993, 24–37.

Intervention

Classroom-based phonological intervention. Masterson, J. J. January 1993, 5–9.
Commitment to theory. Friel-Patti, S. May 1994, 30–34.
Coping and adjustment in alaryngeal speakers. Blood, G. W., Luther, A. R., & Stemple, J. C. January 1992, 63–69.
Counseling parents of children who stutter. Zebrowski, P. M., & Schum, R. L. May 1993, 65–73.
Data collection: Monitoring children's treatment progress. Olswang, L. B., & Bain, B. September 1994, 55–66.
Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. September 1994, 67–76.
Differential treatment of phonological disability in children with impaired hearing who were trained orally. Abraham, S. September 1993, 23–30.
Early childhood stuttering: Pediatricians' attitudes and practices. Yairi, E., & Carrico, D. M. May 1992, 54–62.
The early identification of beginning stuttering I: Protocols. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. May 1992, 43–53.
The early identification of beginning stuttering II: Problems. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. September 1992, 49–55.
Efficacy of a computer-assisted voice treatment protocol. Blood, G. W. January 1994, 57–66.
Evoking [r] using visual feedback. Shuster, L. I., Ruscello, D. M., & Smith, K. D. May 1992, 29–34.
A fluency disorders prevention program for preschoolers and children in the primary grades. Cooper, E. B., & Cooper, C. S. September 1991, 28–31.
Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.
Moving from "parent involvement" to family-centered services. Crais, E. R. September 1991, 5–8.
A pilot study of relations among specific measures obtained at intake and discharge in a program of prevention and early intervention for stuttering. Starkweather, C. W., & Gottwald, S. R. January 1993, 51–58.
Planning for phonological generalization: An approach to treatment target selection. Powell, T. W. September 1991, 21–27.
Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. September 1993, 72–81.
Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. January 1994, 37–44.
Unilateral vocal fold paralysis: Perceived vocal quality following three methods of treatment. McFarlane, S. C., Holt-Romeo, T. L., Lavorato, A. S., & Warner, L. September 1991, 45–48.

Instrumentation for Diagnosis, Treatment, and Research

Clinical measurement of fundamental frequency in normal and dysphonic voices using electronic tuners. Solberg, L. C., Hoag, L. A., & Beals, L. September 1994, 96–104.
Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. September 1994, 67–76.
The early identification of beginning stuttering I: Protocols. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. May 1992, 43–53.
The early identification of beginning stuttering II: Problems. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. September 1992, 49–55.
Efficacy of a computer-assisted voice treatment protocol. Blood, G. W. January 1994, 57–66.
Evoking [r] using visual feedback. Shuster, L. I., Ruscello, D. M., & Smith, K. D. May 1992, 29–34.
Instrumentation and special procedures for individuals with dysarthria. Netsell, R. W. May 1994, 9–11.
Ongoing assessment in the management of stuttering: A clinical perspective. Hillis, J. W. January 1993, 24–37.
A simplified clinical procedure for the acquisition of photoglottographic waveforms from children and adults. Doyle, P. C., & Fraser, S. C. September 1993, 36–40.

Nonspeech Communication Systems

An examination of the role of the facilitator in "facilitated communication." Shane, H. C., & Kearns, K. September 1994, 48–54.
Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.
Perhaps the Emperor has clothes after all: A response to Biklen. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 18–20.
Personal computers as augmentative and alternative communication aids.

Mizuko, M. September 1993, 8–9.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 11–18.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 19–24.
Survey of professional preparation in augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) in speech-language pathology and special education programs. Koul, R. K., & Lloyd, L. L. September 1994, 13–22.
Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. Biklen, D. January 1992, 15–17.
Vocabulary selection for augmentative communication systems: A comparison of three techniques. Morrow, D. R., Mirenda, P., Beukelman, D. R., & Yorkston, K. M. May 1993, 19–30.

Alternative and Augmentative Communication
Letter to the editor, Hershberger, D. January 1994, 89–90.

Counseling Parents
Counseling parents of children who stutter. Zebrowski, P. M., & Schum, R. L. May 1993, 65–73.

Evaluation of Speech Disorders in Minority Cultures
A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. January 1992, 54–62.

Professional and General Scientific Issues

Professional Affairs

Professional Standards and Ethics
Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. Gravel, J. S. May 1994, 25–29.
Implications of socioeconomic trends for speech-language pathology. Kent, R. D. September 1994, 45–47.
Letter to the editor, Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 106–111.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 11–18.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 19–24.
Speech-language pathology and audiology practice in Brazil. Navas, D. M., & Pinho, S. R. May 1993, 5.

Governmental and Professional Regulations
A personal journey to a different kind of convention: Speech and hearing in India. Hegde, M. N. January 1992, 13–14.
Speech-language pathology and audiology practice in Brazil. Navas, D. M., & Pinho, S. R. May 1993, 5.
What Crocodile Dundee never told us: Speech-language pathology in Australia. Reed, V. A. September 1991, 11–12.

Service Provision Models and Problems
After the clinical bedside swallowing examination: What next? Langmore, S. E., & Logemann, J. E. September 1991, 13–20.
A database information storage and reporting system for videofluorographic oropharyngeal motility (OPM) swallowing evaluations. Karnell, M. P., & MacCracken, E. May 1994, 54–60.
Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. Shriberg, L. D. September 1994, 26–28.
The effects of auditory integration training on autism. Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 16–24.
Eligibility, evaluation, and the realities of role definition in the schools. Ehren, B. J. January 1993, 20–23.
Emerging and future issues in motor speech disorders. Duffy, J. R. September 1994, 32–33.
Evaluation and treatment of swallowing disorders. Logemann, J. A. September 1994, 41–44.
Implications of socioeconomic trends for speech-language pathology. Kent, R. D. September 1994, 45–47.
The International Affairs Association. Ritter, E. G. January 1993, 10.
Language disorders in the preschool years. Leonard, L. B. September 1994, 24–26.
A look into a cloudy crystal ball for specialists in neurogenic language disorders. Holland, A. September 1994, 34–36.
Maintaining the integrity of home linguistic varieties: Black English vernacular. Campbell, L. R. January 1993, 11–12.
Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. September 1992, 5–10.
Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? Adamovich, B. L. B. September 1994, 39–41.
School-age language: Bumpy road or super-expressway to the next millenium? Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 29–31.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 11–18.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 19–24.
Serving a multicultural population: Different learning styles. Terrell, B. Y., & Hale, J. E. January 1992, 5–8.
Solving unsolvable stuttering. Perkins, W. H. September 1994, 32–33.
Speech, language, and hearing in Israel. Schwartz, R. G., Harris, K. S., & Most, T. M. September 1993, 5–7.
Speech-language pathology: Moving toward the 21st century. An introduction. Helm-Estabrooks, N. September 1994, 23–24.
Support personnel: An issue for our times. Werven, G. May 1993, 9–12.
Support personnel: Times change. Breakey, L. K. May 1993, 13–16.
Support personnel: Werven responds to Breakey. Werven, G. May 1993, 17–18.
Understanding and educating students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder: Toward a system theory and whole language perspective. Weaver, C. May 1993, 79–89.
Working with families of Chamorro and Carolinian cultures. Hammer, C. S. September 1994, 5–12.

Incidence and Prevalence of Communication Disorders
Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. Shriberg, L. D. September 1994, 26–28.

Research Issues and Methodology
Auditory integration training: The use of a new listening treatment within our profession. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 12–15.
Consumer-oriented evaluation of interactive language intervention. Girolametto, L., Tannock, R., & Siegel, L. September 1993, 41–51.
Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. Shriberg, L. D. September 1994, 26–28.
Emerging and future issues in motor speech disorders. Duffy, J. R. September 1994, 32–33.
Evaluation and treatment of swallowing disorders. Logemann, J. A. September 1994, 41–44.
Implications of socioeconomic trends for speech-language pathology. Kent, R. D. September 1994, 45–47.

Language disorders in the preschool years. Leonard, L. B. September 1994, 24–26.
Letter to the editor, Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 106–111.
A look into a cloudy crystal ball for specialists in neurogenic language disorders. Holland, A. September 1994, 34–36.
Perhaps the Emperor has clothes after all: A response to Biklen. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 18–20.
Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? Adamovich, B. L. B. September 1994, 39–41.
School-age language: Bumpy road or super-expressway to the next millenium? Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 29–31.
Solving unsolvable stuttering. Perkins, W. H. September 1994, 32–33.
Speech-language pathology: Moving toward the 21st century. An introduction. Helm-Estabrooks, N. September 1994, 23–24.
Weighing the promises and the problems: AIT may be a risk worth taking. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 35–37.

Interdisciplinary Concerns

Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. Gravel, J. S. May 1994, 25–29.
Early childhood stuttering: Pediatricians' attitudes and practices. Yairi, E., & Carrico, D. M. May 1992, 54–62.
Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. September 1992, 5–10.
School-age language: Bumpy road or super-expressway to the next millenium? Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 29–31.
Survey of professional preparation in augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) in speech-language pathology and special education programs. Koul, R. K., & Lloyd, L. L. September 1994, 13–22.
Understanding and educating students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder: Toward a system theory and whole language perspective. Weaver, C. May 1993, 79–89.

Professional Training

Education and Continuing Education

Computer-assisted instruction for learning developmental sentence scoring: An experimental comparison. Hughes, D. L., Fey, M. E., Kertoy, M. K., & Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 89–95.
Serving a multicultural population: Different learning styles. Terrell, B. Y., & Hale, J. E. January 1992, 5–8.
Speech, language, and hearing in Israel. Schwartz, R. G., Harris, K. S., & Most, T. M. September 1993, 5–7.
Speech-language pathology and audiology practice in Brazil. Navas, D. M., & Pinho, S. R. May 1993, 5.
Survey of professional preparation in augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) in speech-language pathology and special education programs. Koul, R. K., & Lloyd, L. L. September 1994, 13–22.

Counseling

Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. September 1992, 5–10.
Moving from "parent involvement" to family-centered services. Crais, E. R. September 1991, 5–8.

Support Personnel

Support personnel: An issue for our times. Werven, G. May 1993, 9–12.
Support personnel: Times change. Breakey, L. K. May 1993, 13–16.
Support personnel: Werven responds to Breakey. Werven, G. May 1993, 17–18.

Cultural Beliefs

Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. September 1992, 5–10.

Cultural Diversity

Articulation disorders among speakers of Mandarin Chinese. Fang, X., & Pingan, H. September 1992, 15–16.
The International Affairs Association. Ritter, E. G. January 1993, 10.
Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.
An overview of services in Britain for people who stutter. Stewart, T., & Wright, L. January 1994, 5–7.
A personal journey to a different kind of convention: Speech and hearing in India. Hegde, M. N. January 1992, 13–14.
Speech, language, and hearing in Israel. Schwartz, R. G., Harris, K. S., & Most, T. M. September 1993, 5–7.
Speech-language pathology and audiology practice in Brazil. Navas, D. M., & Pinho, S. R. May 1993, 5.
Speech-language pathology in South Africa: A profession in transition. Tuomi, S. K. May 1994, 5–8.
What Crocodile Dundee never told us: Speech-language pathology in Australia. Reed, V. A. September 1991, 11–12.
Working with families of Chamorro and Carolinian cultures. Hammer, C. S. September 1994, 5–12.

Family Involvement

Moving from "parent involvement" to family-centered services. Crais, E. R. September 1991, 5–8.

Future Perspectives

Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. Shriberg, L. D. September 1994, 26–28.
Emerging and future issues in motor speech disorders. Duffy, J. R. September 1994, 32–33.
Evaluation and treatment of swallowing disorders. Logemann, J. A. September 1994, 41–44.
Implications of socioeconomic trends for speech-language pathology. Kent, R. D. September 1994, 45–47.
Language disorders in the preschool years. Leonard, L. B. September 1994, 24–26.
A look into a cloudy crystal ball for specialists in neurogenic language disorders. Holland, A. September 1994, 34–36.
Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? Adamovich, B. L. B. September 1994, 39–41.
School-age language: Bumpy road or super-expressway to the next millenium? Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 29–31.
Solving unsolvable stuttering. Perkins, W. H. September 1994, 32–33.
Speech-language pathology: Moving toward the 21st century. An introduction. Helm-Estabrooks, N. September 1994, 23–24.

History of Testing

Testing and the creation of disorder. Miller, L. January 1993, 13–16.

International View

Speech, language, and hearing in Israel. Schwartz, R. G., Harris, K. S., & Most, T. M. September 1993, 5–7.

Multicultural Issues

Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. September 1992, 5–10.

Principles of Science

Solving unsolvable stuttering. Perkins, W. H. September 1994, 32–33.

Profession in Other Countries

Speech-language pathology in South Africa: A profession in transition. Tuomi, S. K. May 1994, 5–8.

Title Index

Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Different disorders. Watterson, T., & McFarlanek, S. C. September 1992, 19–20.

Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Related until proven otherwise. Karnell, M. P. September 1992, 17–18.

After the clinical bedside swallowing examination: What next? Langmore, S. E., & Logemann, J. E. September 1991, 13–20.

Analyzing the potential benefit of microcomputer use for teaching figurative language. Nippold, M. A., Schwarz, I. E., & Lewis, M. January 1992, 36–43.

Articulation disorders among speakers of Mandarin Chinese. Fang, X., & Ping-an, H. September 1992, 15–16.

Assessment and intervention for children with limited English proficiency and language disorders. Roseberry-McKibbin, C. September 1994, 77–88.

Assessment of preschool narrative skills. McCabe, A., & Rollins, P. R. January 1994, 45–56.

At the center of controversy: Developmental apraxia. Hall, P. K. May 1992, 23–25.

Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. Gravel, J. S. May 1994, 25–29.

Auditory integration training: The use of a new listening treatment within our profession. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 12–15.

Case study of the redevelopment of motor speech control following acquired brain damage in early childhood. Square, P. A., Aronson, A. E., & Hyman, E. May 1994, 67–80.

Childhood stuttering under "positive" conditions. Adams, M. R. May 1992, 5–6.

Children's use of comprehension strategies in response to relational words: Implications for assessment. Edmonston, N. K., & Thane, N. L. January 1992, 30–35.

Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: A harmful or helpful construct? Cooper, E. B. September 1993, 11–15.

Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Constructive or casuistic? Ham, R. E. September 1993, 16–20.

Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Cooper responds to Ham. Cooper, E. B. September 1993, 21–22.

Classroom-based phonological intervention. Masterson, J. J. January 1993, 5–9.

Clinical measurement of fundamental frequency in normal and dysphonic voices using electronic tuners. Solberg, L. C., Hoag, L. A., & Beals, L. September 1994, 96–104.

A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. May 1993, 38–43.

Cluttering: The orphan of speech-language pathology. Daly, D. A. May 1993, 6–8.

Commitment to theory. Friel-Patti, S. May 1994, 30–34.

Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. September 1992, 39–48.

Communication use and participation in life for adults with aphasia in natural settings: The scope of the problem. Lyon, J. G. May 1992, 7–14.

Computer-assisted instruction for learning developmental sentence scoring: An experimental comparison. Hughes, D. L., Fey, M. E., Kertoy, M. K., & Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 89–95.

Consumer-oriented evaluation of interactive language intervention. Girolametto, L., Tannock, R., & Siegel, L. September 1993, 41–51.

Coping and adjustment in alaryngeal speakers. Blood, G. W., Luther, A. R., & Stemple, J. C. January 1992, 63–69.

Counseling parents of children who stutter. Zebrowski, P. M., & Schum, R. L. May 1993, 65–73.

Current roles and continuing needs of speech-language pathologists working in neonatal intensive care units. Dunn, S. L., van Kleeck, A., & Rossetti, L. M. May 1993, 52–64.

Data collection: Monitoring children's treatment progress. Olswang, L. B., & Bain, B. September 1994, 55–66.

A database information storage and reporting system for videofluorographic oropharyngeal motility (OPM) swallowing evaluations. Karnell, M. P., & MacCracken, E. May 1994, 54–60.

Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. September 1994, 67–76.

Development and assessment of a scale addressing communication needs of patients with laryngectomies. Blood, G. W. September 1993, 82–90.

Developmental apraxia of speech: Just another motor problem. Robin, D. A. May 1992, 19–22.

Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. Shriberg, L. D. September 1994, 26–28.

Differential treatment of phonological disability in children with impaired hearing who were trained orally. Abraham, S. September 1993, 23–30.

Differentiation of speakers with glossectomies by acoustic and perceptual measures. Leonard, R., Goodrich, S., McMenamin, P., & Donald, P. September 1992, 56–63.

Early childhood stuttering: Pediatricians' attitudes and practices. Yairi, E., & Carrico, D. M. May 1992, 54–62.

The early identification of beginning stuttering I: Protocols. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. May 1992, 43–53.

The early identification of beginning stuttering II: Problems. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. September 1992, 49–55.

Early language intervention: A comparison of classroom and individual treatment. Wilcox, M. J., Kouri, T. A., & Caswell, S. B. September 1991, 49–62.

The effects of auditory integration training on autism. Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 16–24.

Effects of teaching preschool peers to use the Mand-model procedure during snack activities. Venn, M. L., Wolery, M., Fleming, L. A., DeCesare, L. D., Morris, A., & Cuffs, M. S. January 1993, 38–46.

Efficacy of a computer-assisted voice treatment protocol. Blood, G. W. January 1994, 57–66.

Eligibility, evaluation, and the realities of role definition in the schools. Ehren, B. J. January 1993, 20–23.

Emerging and future issues in motor speech disorders. Duffy, J. R. September 1994, 36–39.

Evaluation and treatment of swallowing disorders. Logemann, J. A. September 1994, 41–44.

Evoking [r] using visual feedback. Shuster, L. I., Ruscello, D. M., & Smith, K. D. May 1992, 29–34.

An examination of the role of the facilitator in "facilitated communication." Shane, H. C., & Kearns, K. September 1994, 48–54.

Facilitated communication: Biklen responds. Biklen, D. January 1992, 21–22.

Facilitated communication: Calculator responds. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 23–24.

Facilitated communication: Some thoughts on Biklen's and Calculator's interaction. McLean, J. January 1992, 25–27.

Fluency controls and automatic fluency. Perkins, W. H. January 1992, 9–10.

Identification of early stuttering: Issues and suggested strategies. Onslow, M. September 1992, 21–27.

A fluency disorders prevention program for preschoolers and children in the primary grades. Cooper, E. B., & Cooper, C. S. September 1991, 28–31.

Imitation of suprasegmental patterns by non-native speakers of English. Haak, N. J., & Darling, R. M. January 1993, 47–50.

The implications of emergent literacy research for children with developmental disabilities. Koppenhaver, D. A., Coleman, P. P., Kalman, S. L., & Yoder, D. E. September 1991, 38–44.
Implications of socioeconomic trends for speech-language pathology. Kent, R. D. September 1994, 45–47.
Incomplete locked-in syndrome: Two case studies with successful communication outcomes. McGann, W. M., & Paslawski, T. M. September 1991, 32–37.
Instrumentation and special procedures for individuals with dysarthria. Netsell, R. W. May 1994, 9–11.
The intelligibility of children's speech: A review of evaluation procedures. Kent, R. D., Miolo, G., & Bloedel, S. May 1994, 81–95.
The International Affairs Association. Ritter, E. G. January 1993, 10.
An intervention approach for naming problems in children. Casby, M. W. May 1992, 35–42.
An introduction. Helm-Estabrooks, N. September 1994, 23–24.
Is theory better than chicken soup? Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 38–40.
Language disorders in the preschool years. Leonard, L. B. September 1994, 24–26.
Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.
Lexical comprehension in young children with developmental delays. Kouri, T. A. January 1994, 79–88.
A look into a cloudy crystal ball for specialists in neurogenic language disorders. Holland, A. September 1994, 34–36.
Maintaining the integrity of home linguistic varieties: Black English vernacular. Campbell, L. R. January 1993, 11–12.
Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. September 1992, 5–10.
Moving from "parent involvement" to family-centered services. Crais, E. R. September 1991, 5–8.
Ongoing assessment in the management of stuttering: A clinical perspective. Hillis, J. W. January 1993, 24–37.
An overview of services in Britain for people who stutter. Stewart, T., & Wright, L. January 1994, 5–7.
Parental viewpoints on change following auditory integration training for autism. Monville, D. K., & Nelson, N. W. May 1994, 41–53.
Perhaps the Emperor has clothes after all: A response to Biklen. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 18–20.
Personal computers as augmentative and alternative communication aids. Mizuko, M. September 1993, 8–9.
A personal journey to a different kind of convention: Speech and hearing in India. Hegde, M. N. January 1992, 13–14.
Phoneme effects on vocal effort and vocal quality. Watterson, T., McFarlane, S. C., & Diamond, K. L. May 1993, 74–78.
Phonological reorganization: A qualitative measure of phonological improvement. Williams, A. L. May 1993, 44–51.
A pilot study of relations among specific measures obtained at intake and discharge in a program of prevention and early intervention for stuttering. Starkweather, C. W., & Gottwald, S. R. January 1993, 51–58.
Planning for phonological generalization: An approach to treatment target selection. Powell, T. W. September 1991, 21–27.
Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. van Kleeck, A. January 1994, 67–78.
Preschool speech and language screening: A review of currently available tests. Sturner, R. A., Layton, T. L., Evans, A. W., Heller, J. H., Funk, S. G., & Machon, M. W. January 1994, 25–36.
Pretreatment and posttreatment speech naturalness ratings of adults with mild and severe stuttering. Kalinowski, J., Noble, S., Armson, J., & Stuart, A. May 1994, 61–66.
Problem-focused group treatment for clients with mild aphasia. Marshall, R. C. May 1993, 31–37.
The quality of life of young adults with histories of specific language impairment. Records, N. L., Tomblin, J. B., & Freese, P. R. January 1992, 44–53.
Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. September 1993, 31–35.
Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? Adamovich, B. L. B. September 1994, 39–41.
Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. Gordon-Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. September 1992, 28–38.
The removable R-appliance as a practice device to facilitate correct production of /r/. Clark, C. E., Schwarz, I. E., & Blakeley, R. W. January 1993, 84–92.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 11–18.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 19–24.
School-age language: Bumpy road or superexpressway to the next millenium? Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 29–31.
Serving a multicultural population: Different learning styles. Terrell, B. Y., & Hale, J. E. January 1992, 5–8.
Severe paradoxical dysphonia in two young women. Collins, M., McDonald, R., Stanley, R., Donovan, T., & Bonebrake, C. F. September 1993, 52–55.
A simplified clinical procedure for the acquisition of photoglottographic waveforms from children and adults. Doyle, P. C., & Fraser, S. C. September 1993, 36–40.
Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. September 1993, 72–81.
Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. January 1994, 37–44.
Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. September 1993, 56–71.
A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. January 1992, 54–62.
Solving unsolvable stuttering. Perkins, W. H. September 1994, 32–33.
Some questions and answers about velopharyngeal dysfunction during speech. Morris, H. L. May 1992, 26–28.
Some questions and answers about whole language. Norris, J. A. September 1992, 11–14.
Speech, language, and hearing in Israel. Schwartz, R. G., Harris, K. S., & Most, T. M. September 1993, 5–7.
Speech-language pathology and audiology practice in Brazil. Navas, D. M., & Pinho, S. R. May 1993, 5.
Speech-language pathology in South Africa: A profession in transition. Tuomi, S. K. May 1994, 5–8.
Support personnel: An issue for our times. Werven, G. May 1993, 9–12.
Support personnel: Times change. Breakey, L. K. May 1993, 13–16.
Support personnel: Werven responds to Breakey. Werven, G. May 1993, 17–18.
Survey of professional preparation in augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) in speech-language pathology and special education programs. Koul, R. K., & Lloyd, L. L. September 1994, 13–22.

Testing and the creation of disorder. Miller, L. January 1993, 13–16.
Tests: A significant difference? Ehren, T. C. January 1993, 17–19.
Theory as the base on which to build treatment of aphasia. Davis, G. A. January 1994, 8–10.
Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. Caplan, D. January 1993, 59–83.
Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. Biklen, D. January 1992, 15–17.
Understanding and educating students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder: Toward a system theory and whole language perspective. Weaver, C. May 1993, 79–89.
Understanding cultural diversity. Anderson, N. B. January 1992, 11–12.
Understanding cultural diversity. Anderson, N. B. September 1991, 9–10.
Unilateral vocal fold paralysis: Perceived vocal quality following three methods of treatment. McFarlane, S. C., Holt-Romeo, T. L., Lavorato, A. S., & Warner, L. September 1991, 45–48.
Vocabulary selection for augmentative communication systems: A comparison of three techniques. Morrow, D. R., Mirenda, P., Beukelman, D. R., & Yorkston, K. M. May 1993, 19–30.
Weighing the promises and the problems: AIT may be a risk worth taking. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 35–37.
What Crocodile Dundee never told us: Speech-language pathology in Australia. Reed, V. A. September 1991, 11–12.
Working with families of Chamorro and Carolinian cultures. Hammer, C. S. September 1994, 5–12.

Department Index

Clinical Consult

Cluttering: The orphan of speech-language pathology. Daly, D. A. May 1993, 6–8.
Fluency controls and automatic fluency. Perkins, W. H. January 1992, 9–10.
Instrumentation and special procedures for individuals with dysarthria. Netsell, R. W. May 1994, 9–11.
Maintaining the integrity of home linguistic varieties: Black English vernacular. Campbell, L. R. January 1993, 11–12.
Personal computers as augmentative and alternative communication aids. Mizuko, M. September 1993, 8–9.
Some questions and answers about velopharyngeal dysfunction during speech. Morris, H. L. May 1992, 26–28.
Some questions and answers about whole language. Norris, J. A. September 1992, 11–14.
Theory as the base on which to build treatment of aphasia. Davis, G. A. January 1994, 8–10.
Understanding cultural diversity. Anderson, N. B. January 1992, 11–12.
Understanding cultural diversity. Anderson, N. B. September 1991, 9–10.

Clinical Focus

Assessment of preschool narrative skills. McCabe, A., & Rollins, P. R. January 1994, 45–56.
Case study of the redevelopment of motor speech control following acquired brain damage in early childhood. Square, P. A., Aronson, A. E., & Hyman, E. May 1994, 67–80.
Children's use of comprehension strategies in response to relational words: Implications for assessment. Edmonston, N. K., & Thane, N. L. January 1992, 30–35.
A clinical tool for evaluating the familial basis of speech and language disorders. Lewis, B. A., & Freebairn, L. May 1993, 38–43.
Communicating with young children: An ecological model for clinicians, parents, and collaborative professionals. MacDonald, J. D., & Carroll, J. Y. September 1992, 39–48.
Consumer-oriented evaluation of interactive language intervention. Girolametto, L., Tannock, R., & Siegel, L. September 1993, 41–51.
Current roles and continuing needs of speech-language pathologists working in neonatal intensive care units. Dunn, S. L., van Kleeck, A., & Rossetti, L. M. May 1993, 52–64.
A database information storage and reporting system for videofluorographic oropharyngeal motility (OPM) swallowing evaluations. Karnell, M. P., & MacCracken, E. May 1994, 54–60.
Data collection: Monitoring children's treatment progress. Olswang, L. B., & Bain, B. September 1994, 55–66.
Defining and remediating persistent lateral lisps in children using electropalatography: Preliminary findings. Dagenais, P. A., Critz-Crosby, P., & Adams, J. B. September 1994, 67–76.
Differential treatment of phonological disability in children with impaired hearing who were trained orally. Abraham, S. September 1993, 23–30.
Effects of teaching preschool peers to use the Mand-model procedure during snack activities. Venn, M. L., Wolery, M., Fleming, L. A., DeCesare, L. D., Morris, A., & Cuffs, M. S. January 1993, 38–46.
Efficacy of a computer-assisted voice treatment protocol. Blood, G. W. January 1994, 57–66.
Evoking [r] using visual feedback. Shuster, L. I., Ruscello, D. M., & Smith, K. D. May 1992, 29–34.
An examination of the role of the facilitator in "facilitated communication." Shane, H. C., & Kearns, K. September 1994, 48–54.
A fluency disorders prevention program for preschoolers and children in the primary grades. Cooper, E. B., & Cooper, C. S. September 1991, 28–31.
Identification of early stuttering: Issues and suggested strategies. Onslow, M. September 1992, 21–27.
Imitation of suprasegmental patterns by non-native speakers of English. Haak, N. J., & Darling, R. M. January 1993, 47–50.
Incomplete locked-in syndrome: Two case studies with successful communication outcomes. McGann, W. M., & Paslawski, T. M. September 1991, 32–37.
An intervention approach for naming problems in children. Casby, M. W. May 1992, 35–42.
Ongoing assessment in the management of stuttering: A clinical perspective. Hillis, J. W. January 1993, 24–37.
Phonological reorganization: A qualitative measure of phonological improvement. Williams, A. L. May 1993, 44–51.
A pilot study of relations among specific measures obtained at intake and discharge in a program of prevention and early intervention for stuttering. Starkweather, C. W., & Gottwald, S. R. January 1993, 51–58.
Planning for phonological generalization: An approach to treatment target selection. Powell, T. W. September 1991, 21–27.
Preschool speech and language screening: A review of currently available tests. Sturner, R. A., Layton, T. L., Evans, A. W., Heller, J. H., Funk, S. G., & Machon, M. W. January 1994, 25–36.
Pretreatment and posttreatment speech naturalness ratings of adults with mild and severe stuttering. Kalinowski, J., Noble, S., Armson, J., & Stuart, A. May 1994, 61–66.
Problem-focused group treatment for clients with mild aphasia. Marshall, R. C. May 1993, 31–37.
Rating deaf speakers' comprehensibility: An exploratory investigation. Barefoot, S. M., Bochner, J. H., Johnson, B. A., & vom Eigen, B. A. September 1993, 31–35.
Remediating unintelligible utterances of a child with a mild hearing loss. Gordon-

Brannan, M., Hodson, B. W., & Wynne, M. K. September 1992, 28–38.
Severe paradoxical dysphonia in two young women. Collins, M., McDonald, R., Stanley, R., Donovan, T., & Bonebrake, C. F. September 1993, 52–55.
A simplified clinical procedure for the acquisition of photoglottographic waveforms from children and adults. Doyle, P. C., & Fraser, S. C. September 1993, 36–40.
Social support in laryngeal cancer survivors: Voice and adjustment issues. Blood, G. W., Simpson, K. C., Raimondi, S. C., Dineen, M., Kauffman, S. M., & Stagaard, K. A. January 1994, 37–44.
Vocabulary selection for augmentative communication systems: A comparison of three techniques. Morrow, D. R., Mirenda, P., Beukelman, D. R., & Yorkston, K. M. May 1993, 19–30.

Letters to the Editor

Barnartt, E. May 1992, 64.
Crumley, R. L. May 1992, 65, 67.
Hershberger, D. January 1994, 89–90.
McFarlane, S. C. May 1992, 66.
Miller, M. H. September 1994, 105–106.
Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 106–111.
Powell, T. W. May 1992, 64–65.

Research

Clinical measurement of fundamental frequency in normal and dysphonic voices using electronic tuners. Solberg, L. C., Hoag, L. A., & Beals, L. September 1994, 96–104.
Computer-assisted instruction for learning developmental sentence scoring: An experimental comparison. Hughes, D. L., Fey, M. E., Kertoy, M. K., & Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 89–95.
Coping and adjustment in alaryngeal speakers. Blood, G. W., Luther, A. R., & Stemple, J. C. January 1992, 63–69.
Development and assessment of a scale addressing communication needs of patients with laryngectomies. Blood, G. W. September 1993, 82–90.
Differentiation of speakers with glossectomies by acoustic and perceptual measures. Leonard, R., Goodrich, S., McMenamin, P., & Donald, P. September 1992, 56–63.
Early childhood stuttering: Pediatricians' attitudes and practices. Yairi, E., & Carrico, D. M. May 1992, 54–62.
Early language intervention: A comparison of classroom and individual treatment. Wilcox, M. J., Kouri, T. A., & Caswell, S. B. September 1991, 49–62.
Lexical comprehension in young children with developmental delays. Kouri, T. A. January 1994, 79–88.
Phoneme effects on vocal effort and vocal quality. Watterson, T., McFarlane, S. C., & Diamond, K. L. May 1993, 74–78.
The quality of life of young adults with histories of specific language impairment. Records, N. L., Tomblin, J. B., & Freese, P. R. January 1992, 44–53.
The removable R-appliance as a practice device to facilitate correct production of /r/. Clark, C. E., Schwarz, I. E., & Blakeley, R. W. January 1993, 84–92.
Simultaneously treating stuttering and disordered phonology in children: Experimental treatment, preliminary findings. Conture, E. G., Louko, L. J., & Edwards, M. L. September 1993, 72–81.
A sociolinguistic investigation of the speech of African American preschoolers. Bleile, K. M., & Wallach, H. January 1992, 54–62.
Unilateral vocal fold paralysis: Perceived vocal quality following three methods of treatment. McFarlane, S. C., Holt-Romeo, T. L., Lavorato, A. S., & Warner, L. September 1991, 45–48.

Second Opinion

Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Different disorders. Watterson, T., & McFarlanek, S. C. September 1992, 19–20.
Adductor and abductor spasmodic dysphonia: Related until proven otherwise. Karnell, M. P. September 1992, 17–18.
After the clinical bedside swallowing examination: What next? Langmore, S. E., & Logemann, J. E. September 1991, 13–20.
At the center of controversy: Developmental apraxia. Hall, P. K. May 1992, 23–25.
Auditory integration training: Placing the burden of proof. Gravel, J. S. May 1994, 25–29.
Auditory integration training: The use of a new listening treatment within our profession. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 12–15.
Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: A harmful or helpful construct? Cooper, E. B. September 1993, 11–15.
Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Constructive or casuistic? Ham, R. E. September 1993, 16–20.
Chronic perseverative stuttering syndrome: Cooper responds to Ham. Cooper, E. B. September 1993, 21–22.
Commitment to theory. Friel-Patti, S. May 1994, 30–34.
Developmental apraxia of speech: Just another motor problem. Robin, D. A. May 1992, 19–22.
The effects of auditory integration training on autism. Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 16–24.
Eligibility, evaluation, and the realities of role definition in the schools. Ehren, B. J. January 1993, 20–23.
Facilitated communication: Biklen responds. Biklen, D. January 1992, 21–22.
Facilitated communication: Calculator responds. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 23–24.
Facilitated communication: Some thoughts on Biklen's and Calculator's interaction. McLean, J. January 1992, 25–27.
Is theory better than chicken soup? Rimland, B., & Edelson, S. M. May 1994, 38–40.
Perhaps the Emperor has clothes after all: A response to Biklen. Calculator, S. N. January 1992, 18–20.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four opinions. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 11–18.
The role of speech-language pathologists as manufacturers' representatives in AAC: Four responses. Woltosz, W. S., Bristow, D. C., Frumkin, J. R., & Romich, B. January 1994, 19–24.
Support personnel: An issue for our times. Werven, G. May 1993, 9–12.
Support personnel: Times change. Breakey, L. K. May 1993, 13–16.
Support personnel: Werven responds to Breakey. Werven, G. May 1993, 17–18.
Testing and the creation of disorder. Miller, L. January 1993, 13–16.
Tests: A significant difference? Ehren, T. C. January 1993, 17–19.
Typing to talk: Facilitated communication. Biklen, D. January 1992, 15–17.
Weighing the promises and the problems: AIT may be a risk worth taking. Veale, T. K. May 1994, 35–37.

Tutorial

Analyzing the potential benefit of microcomputer use for teaching figurative language. Nippold, M. A., Schwarz, I. E., & Lewis, M. January 1992, 36–43.
Assessment and intervention for children with limited English proficiency and language disorders. Roseberry-McKibbin, C. September 1994, 77–88.
Counseling parents of children who stutter. Zebrowski, P. M., & Schum, R. L. May 1993, 65–73.
The early identification of beginning stuttering I: Protocols. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. May 1992, 43–53.
The early identification of beginning stuttering II: Problems. Gordon, P. A., & Luper, H. L. September 1992, 49–55.
The implications of emergent literacy research for children with developmental disabilities. Koppenhaver, D. A., Coleman, P. P., Kalman, S. L., & Yoder, D. E. September 1991, 38–44.

The intelligibility of children's speech: A review of evaluation procedures. Kent, R. D., Miolo, G., & Bloedel, S. May 1994, 81–95.
Potential cultural bias in training parents as conversational partners with their children who have delays in language development. van Kleeck, A. January 1994, 67–78.
Socioemotional aspects of language and social-communication disorders in young children and their families. Prizant, B. M., & Meyer, E. C. September 1993, 56–71.
Toward a psycholinguistic approach to acquired neurogenic language disorders. Caplan, D. January 1993, 59–83.

Viewpoint

Childhood stuttering under "positive" conditions. Adams, M. R. May 1992, 5–6.
Classroom-based phonological intervention. Masterson, J. J. January 1993, 5–9.
Communication use and participation in life for adults with aphasia in natural settings: The scope of the problem. Lyon, J. G. May 1992, 7–14.
Developmental phonological disorders: Moving toward the 21st century—Forwards, backwards, or endlessly sideways. Shriberg, L. D. September 1994, 26–28.
Emerging and future issues in motor speech disorders. Duffy, J. R. September 1994, 36–39.
Evaluation and treatment of swallowing disorders. Logemann, J. A. September 1994, 41–44.
Implications of socioeconomic trends for speech-language pathology. Kent, R. D. September 1994, 45–47.
An introduction. Helm-Estabrooks, N. September 1994, 23–24.
Language disorders in the preschool years. Leonard, L. B. September 1994, 24–26.
A look into a cloudy crystal ball for specialists in neurogenic language disorders. Holland, A. September 1994, 34–36.
Mexican immigrant mothers' beliefs about disabilities. Maestas, A. G., & Erickson, J. G. September 1992, 5–10.
Moving from "parent involvement" to family-centered services. Crais, E. R. September 1991, 5–8.
Parental viewpoints on change following auditory integration training for autism. Monville, D. K., & Nelson, N. W. May 1994, 41–53.
Rehabilitation following traumatic brain injury: Where are we going? Adamovich, B. L. B. September 1994, 39–41.
School-age language: Bumpy road or super-expressway to the next millenium? Nelson, N. W. September 1994, 29–31.
Serving a multicultural population: Different learning styles. Terrell, B. Y., & Hale, J. E. January 1992, 5–8.
Solving unsolvable stuttering. Perkins, W. H. September 1994, 32–33.
Speech-language pathology: Moving toward the 21st century.
Survey of professional preparation in augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) in speech-language pathology and special education programs. Koul, R. K., & Lloyd, L. L. September 1994, 13–22.
Understanding and educating students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder: Toward a system theory and whole language perspective. Weaver, C. May 1993, 79–89.

World View

Articulation disorders among speakers of Mandarin Chinese. Fang, X., & Ping-an, H. September 1992, 15–16.
The International Affairs Association. Ritter, E. G. January 1993, 10.
Lending a hand: A personal account of the development of facilitated communication training. Crossley, R. May 1992, 15–18.
An overview of services in Britain for people who stutter. Stewart, T., & Wright, L. January 1994, 5–7.
A personal journey to a different kind of convention: Speech and hearing in India. Hegde, M. N. January 1992, 13–14.
Speech, language, and hearing in Israel. Schwartz, R. G., Harris, K. S., & Most, T. M. September 1993, 5–7.
Speech-language pathology and audiology practice in Brazil. Navas, D. M., & Pinho, S. R. May 1993, 5.
Speech-language pathology in South Africa: A profession in transition. Tuomi, S. K. May 1994, 5–8.
What Crocodile Dundee never told us: Speech-language pathology in Australia. Reed, V. A. September 1991, 11–12.
Working with families of Chamorro and Carolinian cultures. Hammer, C. S. September 1994, 5–12.

THE VISIBLE VOICE

A Newsletter For Voice Specialists

- State of the Art
- Multidisciplinary
- On Laryngology and Voice
- A very affordable quarterly

James A. Koufman, M.D., Editor-in-Chief

Subscription rates $10 in U.S., $15 foreign Mail check or money order (no cash) to:
THE VISIBLE VOICE
Center For Voice Disorders
of Wake Forest University
Medical Center Boulevard
Winston-Salem, NC 27157